“ Words cannot fully express the depth of my feelings as I reflect on my journey through cancer. Today I revisited a post from January 10, 2010, I revisited the memories of how I made it through that challenging time, thanks to the unwavering support of Charles Young, George Winston, Lee Brown, and Liz Sappenfield, along with the incredible staff who was there for me during some of the darkest moments of my life, offering compassion and kindness when I needed it most.

However, I was struck with sorrow when I realized I couldn't recall your last names. In a moment of desperation, I turned to Facebook, hoping to piece together the fragments of my memory. To my dismay, I discovered that you had passed away on June 17, 2014, just four years after you helped me through my ordeal. I felt an overwhelming sense of grief, knowing that when you needed me, I was not there to support you as you had supported me.

I am left feeling profoundly sad, haunted by the weight of this loss. Your kindness and presence meant so much to me, and I wish I had the chance to express my gratitude in person. Thank you for being my light during that dark time; I will always carry your memory in my heart.- Rest In Peace Charles.

“ My Dearest Brother it has been 1 year since I last saw your loving face. I can't begin to share with you how much I miss your smile. This has been the most difficult year of my life. God only knows how much the family misses you as a whole. But God is good and I know in my heart that one day we will meet again...and you will reach out for me when the time comes. A lot of people think about how young you were when you left us but, what they don't realize is the what counts is the "Dash" in the middle. What did you do in your life? For me "You Made Me Smile" Miss You Your Big Sis Angela

To the Young Family: My husband and I are sorry for the loss of your loved one. I recall being around Charlie when I worked for the Community Action Agency Daycare Center under the direction of Ms. Juliette Whittaker. He always had a smile, and I enjoyed being in his presence. We are praying that God will comfort and sustain you in your hour of bereavement. Melvin and Marjorie Kay Douglas (Williams).
