I just heard about Rodman's passing while visiting in Colorado last week. My sincere condolences go out to the family. Rodman Wyatt and I were best friends in our youth. We spent a lot of time in each other's homes, and he was like a brother to me. Unfortunately, we lost track of each other when I moved to Colorado, and then to D.C. However, whenever we would run into each other, we would take up right where we left off. Rodman was a good friend, an excellent student, and I shall always remember walking to Manual and Roosevelt together, and playing ball on Webster School's playgrounds. Rest in Peace, my brother.
